Comments
Going over homework assignments was useful in understanding mistakes.
Very helpful TA
I liked that we covered all the quizzes and homework's in recitation.
I liked all the examples they were helpful, the TA was reachable too
I was enrolled in Alper's 4:55 pm class, but oftentimes I would feel tired and de-motivated during that time. Alper allowed anyone the opportunity to come to his 8 am section which was very kind of him! He also went over the slides in a manner that was easy to understand and was very encouraging of questions.
Pr. Gencer explained the material in detail, writing out concepts on the board and asking us how he could explain the material better so that we understood it. He was extremely helpful, kind, and dedicated to us getting the best grade possible in his class. He did not belabor recitation, was highly efficient at delivering the material, and answered every email I sent him quickly and kindly. Great teacher
The recitation was helpful as it reviewed the more complex topics of lecture and provided us with more practice problems and examples.

If you could suggest one thing to improve the recitation, what would it be?

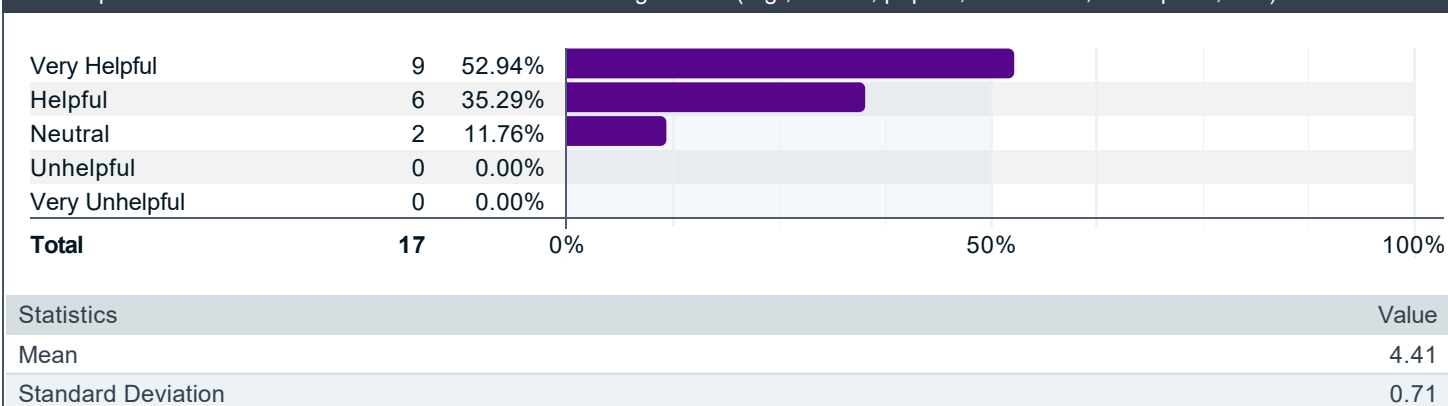

Comments
I would suggest for the TAs to be more consistent with each other, since sometimes we would learn one thing in recitation or lecture and get points off when another TA graded something. Also, the course material covered in recitation and lecture were not always related.
Sometimes going more in depth.
Maybe having more exercises and problems to practice the main concepts.
I would have enjoyed talking about politics more, not only in regards to Game Theory, but everything.
More conversation/class interaction when solving problems
Being more clear and organized
He explained the contents too fast, sometimes it is hard to grasp his idea.
I think seeing more of a variety of problems could help. It felt like we studied certain things so much even after everyone understood (strategic form games specifically).
NA
Nothing, the recitation was perfect.
